LIFE TERMS AT JOLIET PRISON IMPOSED BY JUSTICE CAVERLY ON SLAYERS OF BOBBY FRANKS

Opposed to Sentencing Youths of Minor Age to Gallows, Court Says.

RUSHED TO PENITENTIARY

In addition to life penalty for murderer Justice Caverly pronounced sentence of 99 years to same place on charge of kidnapping.

By United Press

CRIMINAL COURT ROOM, CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Sentences of life imprisonment was imposed today by Chief Justice Caverly on Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb for the murder of Bobby Frank. The justice also imposed a sentence of 99 years on the charge of kidnapping for ransom.

The boys pleaded guilty to both offenses.

Nathan and Richard, sitting tensely on the edges of their chairs, received the verdict without a change of expression. It took some 30 seconds to realize that they had escaped the noose, and they sat back in their chairs with a thin smile. The youthful prisoners were whisked from the room rapidly by their guards that their brothers had no opportunity to shake their hands.

The sentence of the defense attorney, led by Clarence Darrow, who had castigated their fight on a gallows.

Dispensing with the formality of calling the defendants before him, Chief Justice Caverly read the sentence from the bench. Looking directly at the boys Justice Caverly said:

"I sentence you, Nathan Leopold, to the penitentiary at Joliet for the period of your natural life for the murder of Robert Frank."

Turning back to Leopold the Justice said:

"I sentence you, Richard Loeb, to the penitentiary at Joliet for the period of your natural life for the murder of Robert Frank."

Turning back to Leopold the Justice said:

"I sentence you, Nathan Leopold, to the penitentiary at Joliet for 99 years for the kidnapping of Robert Frank."

And then the final sentence:

"I sentence you, Richard Loeb, to the penitentiary at Joliet for 99 years for the kidnapping of Robert Frank."

The prisoners will be taken to the state penitentiary at Joliet within 24 hours. Sheriff Hoffman announced shortly after the boys were removed from the courtroom. The 40-mile trip will be made by automobile, the sheriff said, a heavy guard going with the prisoners.

Loeb and Leopold were smiling and apparently still unconcerned when called before Justice Caverly for sentence.

"Do you defendants have anything to say in this case?" Judge Caverly asked.

The boys half rose and nodded in the negative. Then the judge started to read his opinion.

Judge Caverly said that because of the great interest that the case has drawn, both in Chicago and throughout the land, he felt that he should give his reasons for the sentences he was about to impose. He pointed out first that the case was somewhat different from the ordinary cases of guilty because no understanding was made with the state's attorney before the trials were entered. Judge Caverly pointed out that inasmuch as a plea of guilty had been entered he was compelled to hear evidence in aggravation and mitigation of offense.

Judge Caverly said he was satisfied from the evidence that no abuse was practiced on the body of the victim. He said he could find no mitigating circumstances in connection with the crime. The murder, he found, was carefully planned, over a long period of time, and was a callous act. Before imposing sentence Judge Caverly said he was opposed to sentencing youths of minor age to the gallows.

53 Years Behind Bars for Slayers Unless Pardoned

By United Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—The state has appealed from the sentence imposed on Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb to life imprisonment for murder and 99 years for kidnapping, although it constituted a victory for the defense whose sole fight was against hanging.

Judge Caverly mentioned that the matter of parole was left to the jurisdiction of the department of public welfare and urged that no parole be against any possibility of parole for Leopold and Loeb.

The Illinois criminal code provides that no person sentenced to life imprisonment can be released on parole until they have served at least 20 years of their sentence. The law also provides that no person sentenced for a definite term of years for capital offense can be released on parole until at least one-third of that sentence has been served.

As Judge Caverly's sentences do not run concurrently but consistently, the law states that they will be eligible for parole in 33 years—20 for the life sentence and 13 on the 99 year sentence. Both are now 20 years old. They will be 73, if they serve a prison life, before they will be eligible for release.

The one hope of earlier freedom for the slayers lies in the governor of the state of Illinois, who under the statutes has the power to pardon any prisoner.

Immediately after imposing sentence Justice Caverly left the courtroom, hurriedly saying he was going to a hotel and later would leave the city. He warned that anyone attempting to follow him would be arrested.

May Establish Egg Production Record

HOPKIRK, Pa., Sept. 10.—A record number of hens in the flock owned by the Lake Oak Poultry Farm, of Hopkirke, according to D. M. Gray, poultry extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State College, who has just visited the farm. From the first of November to the first of April this flock of White Leghorns has produced an average of 162 eggs per bird. If the present rate of production is maintained, the flock will probably average 185 eggs for the year and will be one of the highest producing flocks in Pennsylvania.

Fifteen hens have laid over 900 eggs and are still going strong. One outstanding bird has produced 234 eggs and has over two months to go before she completes her laying year. Avery bird on the farm is trap-necked so that the exact production is recorded. This enables the manager to eliminate the "border hen" or the one that is producing small or off-colored eggs.

I Paid $5

For These Powders Once

By Edna Wallison Hopper.
I was asked to offer women my aids to youth and beauty, and I did. They aid & believe, the greater in assistance, the more I can do to help you get them.

Other countries who have asked me about powders. I am an amateur in this field. We in our work care nothing for expense. Anything which is to be used should be worth its cost.

So I have long paid $5 per box, as have others, and have never seen a powder almost in a powder. Each box was made to my order.

I have asked the makers to supply these identical powders, in quantities, at prices I all could pay.

I have agreed to market them to women who desire them, thus saving money to the manufacturer.

It is known that anyone who uses these powders will be amazed and delighted.

I shall gladly mail you a sample of the kind you want if you will mail this coupon. Please do that now.

DAWSON, Sept. 10.—Miss Emma Laughrey, who has been spending the past few weeks at the home of her brother, James, has returned to her home in California.

G. W. Gifford took in the ball game at Scottdale Saturday.

Mrs. E. E. Shaw has gone to Canada to visit her sister for the next few weeks.

The members of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie baseball team are very much pleased over their showing against Newell on Saturday. The Dickerson Run boys have the honor of being the only team in the league to defeat Newell this year having won from Newell Saturday on the Y. M. C. A. grounds by a score of 4 to 2. Addie Dickerson Run pitched one of the best games in his career, striking out 11 men and allowing just a few scattered hits. He retired the side on strikes in the seventh inning on 11 balls. Monessen plays Dickerson Run Saturday at Dickerson Run.

Martin Townsend of Flatwoods

passed through town Monday on his way to the fair grounds with several pails of his speckled Sumter chickens which will have on display in the big show. Mart is a lover of chickens and always buys a blue ribbon.

There may be greater powders in the world, but I have never found them, and I have consulted the greatest experts in the field.

I know that anyone who uses these powders will be amazed and delighted.

I shall gladly mail you a sample of the kind you want if you will mail this coupon. Please do that now.

For Second Wife

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 10.—That polygamy dies hard in Turkey seems clear from the gentle provisions in the bill drafted by the Judicial Reform Commission setting up a theoretical monogamy. Here is the clause:

The principle of a single wife is essential in matrimony. Consequently a man who desires to enter into a second union will be authorized to do so only after demonstrating the necessity thereof as well as his ability to keep two wives. He must also obtain the authorization of a judge.

But obviously there is no absolute hard-and-fast ban.

A WORTHY EXAMPLE.

The residents, with which the Italian residents of this section, and the New Haven Hose Company and its band, have signified their intention of participating in the Defense Day demonstration is worthy of the highest praise.

These citizens—many of whom were foreign born or are children of foreign born parents—have thus given proof that they value most highly the privileges which they enjoy and count it a joy to be given opportunity to exhibit their gratitude and appreciation.

The citizens, who acted as escort to every quota of draftsmen which went out from Connellsville during the World War, and participated in every other patriotic effort during that period, have never hesitated to offer their services when effort is being made to demonstrate the spirit of the people of Connellsville on all matters of public interest and concern.

The example these two groups have given the community ought to be an incentive for every other organization to show that they lack nothing in loyalty to the home town, the state or nation.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN'S RALLY.

The rally to be held in Elks Hall tomorrow evening will afford a rare opportunity for the Republican women of Connellsville and vicinity to show their strength, to manifest their interest and desire to become more fully informed concerning the things for which the Republican party stands in this and other campaigns.

The principal address of the evening being delivered by a prominent leader among Republican women of the state occasion will be provided to hear an exposition of the principles of the party and to obtain an insight into the character and kind of service the women in its ranks can render to their community, state and nation.

Only comparatively few Republican women of Connellsville have been energetic and忠實 in their activities in behalf of the party. Others have been content to limit their service to voting and have refrained from taking an active part in the campaign, through which to advance the party's interests in this locality. Many have, as doubtless felt that the preponderance of Republican voters in this section makes it unnecessary for the women voters to exhibit concern as to the outcome of a campaign. That, in a sense, may be true but, the full discharge of the larger duties of citizenship, which equal suffrage has made incumbent upon women, requires that they accept the same responsibilities as men with respect to voting.

That the Republican women of Connellsville may keep step with their sisters elsewhere, and show to the large group of more or less indifferent males that they have a realising sense of their obligations and privileges as members of the party, there should be such a turnout tomorrow evening as will tax the facilities of the hall to accommodate them.

WATER COMPANY TAKES FORWARD STEP.

The company, by the Connellsville Water Company on the suggestion of City Council, is attempting through City Collector Remsen, that water rates he provided in the hill top and remote sections of the city for the purpose of providing more adequate fire protection, will serve to some extent in restoring this utility in public favor. The action taken will at least show an attitude and disposition different from that which formerly characterized this corporation.

Instead of opposing, as heretofore, all suggestions as to betterment of service, and resisting efforts of the city authorities to secure cooperation on the part of public utilities, the water company has evidently come to see the advantages and powers that accrue from an enlightened and liberal policy.

It seems also to have come to a comprehension of the fact that the function and object of a public utility is to render service, and that it prefers to reluctantly provide that service rather than have the Public Service Commission exercise its powers of control over it.

Its forward step in this matter, the water company is as deserving of commendation as it has heretofore been entitled to receive.

If the Democratic forecasts with respect to the Maine election are to be taken as a guide, we can already form a fair idea of the size of the avalanche under which Davis and Hayes will be buried on November 4.

LaFolletteism Is SocialismBY FRED K. MARVIN,
Editor Advertising Department, New York Courier.

Socialist Party Majority.

Robert M. LaFollette is the candidate of the Socialist Party of the United States for President.

The Socialist Party of the United States, as an organization, was disloyal during the war. Many of its members were arrested and convicted for seditionary utterances, obstructing the draft, or other serious offenses against this nation.

Eugene V. Debs was one of them. He is now chairman of the Socialist National Committee backing the candidacy of LaFollette. Victor Berger was another. He is how strong for LaFollette.

The day after war was declared—and do not forget that declaration was forced upon us against our will by Germany—the Socialist Party now backs LaFollette for President; in convention assembled at St. Louis adopted the following declaration:

"The Socialist Party of the United States in the present grave crisis solemnly reaffirms its allegiance in the principles of internationalism and working class solidarity the world over, and proclaims its unshakable opposition to the war just declared by the Government of the United States." As against the false doctrine of national patriotism we uphold the ideals of international working solidarity."

It will be recalled that many who sat in that convention—having been drawn into accepting Socialism just as many today, not knowing the truth, are being "drawn" into following LaFollette—revolted at the disloyalty declaration and at once withdrew from the movement giving their best efforts to aiding their country when in trouble.

So far as known, none of those who withdraw from the party when its American declaration was adopted are today backing the candidate of Robert M. LaFollette, and so far as known all of those who voted and approved the disloyalty declaration are today in the front ranks of the LaFollette organization.

Prominent among them is found Eugene V. Debs. Debs is now the chairman of the Socialist National Committee, and as such chairman is in charge of the work of securing votes for Robert M. LaFollette and Burton K. Wheeler.

Debs, it will be recalled, because of his open seditionary efforts, was convicted and served a term in a Federal penitentiary. He was released but a short time ago by a kind-hearted President. At once he returned to his old employment of trying to overthrow this government, a line in which he has been engaged for over a quarter of a century. When he entered the prison he is quoted as saying:

"From the crown of my head to the soles of my feet I am a Bolshevik."

And again,

"I am working for the same thing here they are working for over there (Russia)."

And so we must assume, considering these frank confessions, that in working to elect Robert M. LaFollette, Eugene V. Debs, a confessed enemy of the United States, is working to give us the same thing they are now experiencing in Russia.

Cleverly deceived, as were others until the Socialist Party was forced to come in the open during the war, today there are many following LaFollette not understanding the true character of his backing or the true purpose of those backing him.

Labor Banks

WHEELING TELEGRAPH.

A representative of American labor in Europe, looks forward in the day when labor banks will be strong enough to control the financial policies of the nation.

To which it may be replied that if American workmen are thrifty enough to accumulate sufficient capital in their own banks to dictate to the rest of the people of the country in a financial way they will deserve what ever measure of control they will be able to exercise. And we are not sure but that would be a very good thing for the country and for organized labor as well, for there is nothing so quick to make his feelings known as the displeased or frightened bank patron.

The bank is no, individually controlled concern able to do what it pleases with the cash in its strong-boxes. It is a public regulation and is governed by strict regulations and economic laws, even more stringent than those laid down by the Legislature of Congress. Its main aim is to the public welfare. Its every act and every word is open to inspection. Nothing should be done about this at once.

A Careless Operator.

CHICAGO NEWS.—At a recent point of view, he just began to realize the importance of the telephone. The couple first met over the telephone, the husband now alleges he got a wrong number.

New Good If Detached.

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE.—"Pat," the young political who had listened to the young Irishman's speech, "I wish I had your mother's love," grinned Pat. "It would be no use to you without my brain."

Labor is doing well with its banks.

It is doing well because it is operating along lines generally recognized as sound by the banking profession as a whole. The deeper labor goes into the banking business, with all its responsibilities and ramifications, the more sound will be its attitude and the more nearly will the financial interests of the country at large and labor as represented in the banks do well and harmonize.

ARMS OF LAW
HAVE BUSY TIME
AT VANDERBILT

Yesterday Was First in Three Weeks to Pass Without a Suit Filed or Tried.

RAIN PREVENTS "GOLF"

Special to The Courier
VANDERBILT, Sept. 10.—Yesterday, for the first time within three weeks, a day passed without a lawsuit being held before one of the justices of the peace. During the three-week period 13 cases were tried, with three requiring three evenings in which to settle them. Four of the suits were settled before Justice of the Peace R. E. McLaughlin, with nine settled by Justice of the Peace C. B. Arison. This is said to be a record for the "law" since prohibition went into effect Monday evening two cases were settled by the legal Justices!

"Golf" Game Called Off.

The horseshoe contest that was scheduled for last evening at 5 o'clock was postponed because of wet grounds. The game was to have been played between the "all-star" teams of Connellsville and Vanderbilt. Jerry Rienour has been named captain of the local "gofors." The postponed date has not been selected.

Christian Church News.

The Faithful Friend Class of the Christian Church will meet this evening at the home of Mrs. William Galloway. Wednesday evening there will be a meeting of the young people's choir. After prayer-meeting the deacons will meet. The Christian Workers' Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Grace List Fieldy evening.

Rev. Beall at Morgantown.

Rev. C. H. Beall, pastor of James Cochran Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, was called to Morgantown, W. Va., this morning on a business trip. While there he will visit his mother, Mrs. Catherine Beall. Rev. Beall formerly resided in Morgantown.

Mondays Here Saturday.

The Monessen outfit of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie League will play its second game Saturday at the Dickerson Run Y. M. C. A. grounds, meeting the local railroad contingent having defeated the Monongahela on one occasion and with renewed confidence after upsetting the baseball dogs Saturday by toppling Newell, the Young Valley nine will go over Mondragon's scalp. Every team in the league has been a victim of the local club, while Mondragon is the only one that does not hold a victory over the Dickerson Run outfit. Skipper Bill Adkins will be in the mound as usual.

Scout Tent at Fair Grounds.

Troop 2 of the Boy Scouts will take charge of the Boy Scout tent that is erected at the Dawson Driving Park at the fair. The tent is erected to demonstrate work and advertise the Boy Scouts. An information regarding the Scouts will be given at the tent. The scout executive of Uniontown is in charge of the first two days of the fair with A. C. Blair of Uniontown in charge Thursday and the scout troop Friday. The tent is near that of the Red Cross. The scouts will be ready to render first aid.

Brads Manager Says.

Peter C. Abate, manager of the Divas Independents, an independent of the Vanderbilt Athletic Club that is financing the ball team, is expressing much confidence regarding the game with the Captain Independents in his re-enlightened ball club. "With the ball club I have at present, I can whip any semi-pro outfit in Fayette county, without saying that amateur teams would fall before it like hay before a mowing machine," he asserted. "The Perry's clan will have to put up a better brand of baseball. You know they have been playing. They have any hopes of winning. With Jack Meeske on the mound, the glass blowers will get about three or four hits and about a single run while my sluggers will pasto off big round-trips. After we defeat them Monday, we'll play the fourth game of the series at the Dickerson Run grounds and the fifth will be at the South Connellsville grounds. Of course, we expect to win those three games and take the series from the Captain team and lay claim for the amateur championship of Fayette county. Let's see the glass blowers blowing Monday."

Personal.

Paul Bradley Leslie Shallenberger and LeMoyne Latouche were social callers in Uniontown last evening.

Miss Anna Ruslukoff of Connellsville No. 1 was among the callers in town yesterday.

Peter C. Abate was transacting business in Williamsburg yesterday. From previous indications Mr. Abate may promote a boxing show this winter.

Both Connellsville and Dunbar Townships Expect Good Teams This Season

Cokers Have Over 60 Candidates Reporting Daily; Prospects Are Bright.

DISTRIBUTING CLOTHES COACH BASOM PLEASED

After a pleasant, or rather, a most delightful surprise came the Connellsville High School football fan who visits Fayette Field these evenings to witness the preliminary workouts of the team of that institution. The sight of some 60 boys who are reporting daily to Coach Lerow and Settle revives interest that slackened somewhat with the close of last season, when several of the men, considered the most important on the team, graduated.

For the first time in many years, the school has a group of boys in uniform who really look like their right develop into something worth while if they can't get right into the game and adhere to the advice of the coaches. There are a number of well-built youths, who have the height and weight that been lacking in past seasons.

It remains to be seen how the outfit will work once the season opens, but present impressions are that the name of Connellsville's High School will be rather well known in grid circles this fall.

The boys themselves are enthused. All they need to do is retain that spirit and stick to the game regardless of whether they make the "varsity" eleven or not. They feel they are going to have a good team and that is half of the success.

There are many new faces on the field and some of these candidates look exceptionally good. The squad is gradually being uniformed. Clothes were first given to some of the older men and as the equipment is available, it will be distributed to the others. In time the whole contingent will be in uniform.

Practice ended about 6 o'clock last evening and wound up with a run about the field. Coach Lerow is not working his boys too hard at the beginning but will increase the training a little at a time. There was a big crowd of interested spectators on the field last evening.

GAME PROTECTION MORE SUCCESSFUL THAN EVER BEFORE

Accomplished Through the Extermination of Destuctive Vermin.

130,000 KILLED IN 1923

Special to The Courier.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—Protection of small game through the extermination of the animals which prey upon rabbits and other small animals was never so successfully carried out as in the last two years, the state game commission stated in its biennial report recently submitted to Governor Pinchot.

Increase in bounties, the holding of vermin trapping contests and the widespread interest in the conservation of game resulted in more than 130,000 game destroying animals of all kinds being trapped and killed.

Wildcats, gray and red foxes, weasels, hawks, owls, crows and stray dogs were included in the list of animals that were killed in order to afford the greatest measure of protection to the small game.

Seemingly, the vermin campaign had the desired effect for the report shows that many types of small animals are thriving as never before and that there are more available for hunting purposes than has been the case in recent years.

Squirrels kept increasing with the average kill in 1922 and 1923, two and one-fourth per man.

The number of wild turkeys in the state is increasing despite the fact that these game birds have been hunted very hard. Ruffed grouse, ring-neck pheasants and bobwhite quail are increasing. Woodcock are not increasing and the report states that many sportmen favor a federal proclamation on these birds for several seasons. Wild waterfowl are increasing in number while the beaver family is thriving so well that it is quite possible the season will soon be opened.

The Horse Breaking Into a Short Gallop Near Every Summit.

Palp nor every summit, and then resuming its laborious crawl.

"That's the institution, Miss Wentworth," the matron continued, pointing toward a straggling building in a little plateau. "It had the appearance of a large but rather dilapidated farmhouse. It's three miles by the road," he added, "but less than a mile over the hills."

The horse had stopped to graze again. Looking back Joan saw a white line that crept upward over the rocky slopes almost direct from the station to the building. Half way up was a little speck of black, that seemed to move. Joan knew it was Mrs. Fraser, her body being hidden from view among the bushes. She shuddered slightly. She was very remiss.

The horse went on again, the road winding uphill through gorse, may with buttercups and white wild branched asters. It dipped between hedgerows, pink with meadow-sweet. The sun had set, but its light still gilded the hills. The scene was very peaceful. Now the institute seemed to swing out from among the undulations of the mountain flanks immediately in front of them.

The buggy came to a standstill before the long wooden building which was of unshingled boards and very much the worse for weather. It had not been painted for years and two windows in one wing were broken, a patch of weeds underlaid with a ledge, but were now more tangled of undergrowth. Nearly at the large inclosure in which were a few chickens picking for grains of corn, and a cow at pasture turned her head and gazed at them placidly.

The door opened and a pleasant-looking woman came forward.

"How do you do, Miss Wentworth," she said. "I am the matron, Mrs. Fraser. Doctor Lancaster telephoned about your coming. I'll show you your room and your supper will be ready in a few minutes."

Joan descended. The driver, who had leaped to the ground behind the hand over the wheel, did not offer it to her. Then he re-entered the buggy, and, rather to Joan's surprise, drove off along the road by which they had ascended.

The girl after a moment's hesitation preceded Mrs. Fraser into the building. She saw a long corridor, with a number of doors on either side, and the stairs in front of her.

You would like to see the building, Miss Wentworth," asked the matron. "Or perhaps you are tired and would prefer to go to your room."

"No, I should like to see it. Have you many patients?"

"Only Mrs. Dunn. She's always here, you know. There was a boy with a broken arm, but he left this morning. In winter, though, we're often crowded. It isn't much of a place, Miss Wentworth, but this is the doctor's apartment. He sleeps here; next door is the kitchen. Now I'll show you your room upstairs, Miss Wentworth."

The corridor above was a replica of the one below. At the head of the stairs a little maid scurried off toward a large window in the wall, with a door to one side of it. Mrs. Dunn occupies this room," said the matron. "Perhaps the doctor mentioned her?"

Doctor Lancaster said something.

"She is out of her mind, poor woman, but she is perfectly quiet. You see, Miss Wentworth, she is like an infant mentally. She will not trouble you. Excuse me a moment."

He drew a key from the bunch that hung at her waist and unlocked the door very softly, and with a certain timeliness. Joan thought. Looking in, the girl saw a strikingly handsome man of about seven and thirty years, seated in a chair beside a window, with a shawl over her knees. She was in a die sing gown and her hair hung over her shoulders in two braids.

She is not Doctor Jenkins' resident, know?"

The matron stared at her in astonishment. "Why, Miss Wentworth, that was Doctor Jenkins who drove you up from the station! Didn't you know?" she asked.

"That was Doctor Jenkins?"

"Mr. Myers has had supper?" she asked.

You are to have your meals alone, Miss Wentworth," answered the matron.

"But I should not wish—"

"It is the doctor's orders," said Mrs. Fraser in a tone of finality.

Coming in with the dessert, Mrs. Fraser and her nodding at the table, the girl had begun to feel an intense fatigue after the all-day journey. She went to sleep too, that her work at the hospital had been harder than she had known.

"I believe I shall go straight to bed," she said.

"The best thing you can do, Miss Wentworth. Everybody feels sleepy when they first arrive here. It's the hill air. You just sit well, Miss Wentworth, and please remember it's you who give the orders."

She preceded her up the stairs, carrying an oil lamp. She set it down in Joan's room, and then she seemed to hesitate.

"Miss Wentworth," she said, "the doctor wants us to do everything we can to make you comfortable. There isn't likely to be any work unless some patient comes in. You were not to attend Mrs. Dunn, I think?"

"I was told not."

"That's so, Miss Wentworth." The matron's air was a very decided one, and again conveyed the impression of something hidden, which was, further, meant to remain hidden. "The doctor wired me that I don't suppose he said anything about Mrs. Dunn to you? Or—Mr. Myers?"

Her steadily watchfulness now seemed of ominous portent, and the matron made no attempt to suppress the eagerness with which she awaited Joan's answer.

"No, Doctor Lancaster said nothing."

Then, seeing that the matron was still regarding her doubtfully, she added:

"Isn't it not Doctor Jenkins' residence?"

"I have not seen him yet, you know."

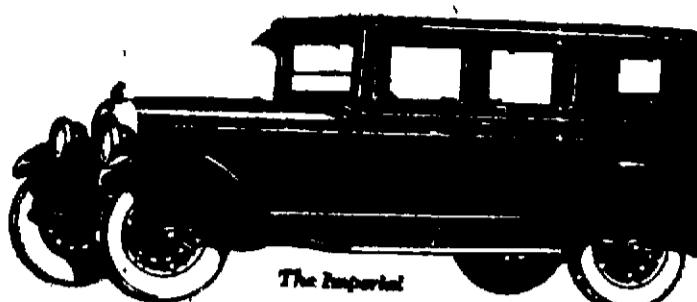

The matron stared at her in astonishment. "Why, Miss Wentworth, that was Doctor Jenkins who drove you up from the station! Didn't you know?" she asked.

"That was Doctor Jenkins?"

Tubular Axles Best Fitted For Four-Wheel Brakes

The Imperial

A new type of combination chamber that bears the name of the car is now in use. The reason why the Chrysler engineers have chosen this design is that it is one of the reasons why the front axle is of tubular design. In comparison with the conventional practice it shows these advantages: Twisting strains, 138% stronger; horizontal strains, 5 times stronger; up and down strains, 400% stronger; rigidity 34% greater.

The braking equipment in the Chrysler is Lockheed development of the hydraulic principle, guaranteeing automatic and permanent equilibrium. These four-wheel brakes and the Chrysler practice of mounting rear springs at right angles to the rear axle and close to and parallel to the wheels account in large measure for the superior driving and riding qualities of the car.

There is no disturbing side-sway under any conditions and you can take a turn at 50 miles an hour without danger or discomfort. Book yourself for a ride and be sure to have these superlatives demonstrated.

In its admiration of the good Maxwell's ability to outperform anything at anywhere near the price, the American public should remember—

1st.—That no other car in America, regardless of price, excels Maxwell strength and staunchness in proportion to weight and power.

2nd.—That at all vital points, metals and construction are the same as in cars that cost three to four times as much.

3rd.—That in its manufacture, no measures are too costly to protect the owner fully, in person and in pocket.

These are the precise reasons why the good Maxwell—now under the supervision of Chrysler engineers—stands up and delivers its splendid service at such amazingly low cost.

Baptist Laymen
To Fill Pulpits
Sunday, Sept. 28

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—In Baptist faires of the 34 states comprising his territory of the Northern Baptist Convention, laymen will speak from the pulpit on September 28. Laymen's Sunday will be very generally observed by the denomination this year.

Setting apart one Sunday in the year for this purpose is part of the program of the National Council of Northern Baptist Laymen, which has set for itself the task of arousing the state members of the denomination to more active interest in church work. The method adopted has been to systematically urge a larger attendance of men at the regular church conferences and conventions.

For the Northern Convention of 221 the slogan "One Thousand laymen at Milwaukee" was raised and with such effect that more than double that number actually attended. Next year the Baptists are to meet in Seattle, which means a long journey for most of the delegates, but the council of Laymen is again in the field to promote active participation by the men of the churches and is confident that a great many will be persuaded to make the trip to the Pacific Coast.

The council has not developed a elaborate or spectacular program, but as gone in a determined way about the business of altering a condition which has made it necessary for practically all Protestant churches to add a large majority of those active in church work are women.

Farm Calendar

The Pennsylvania State College Timely Reminders From

Weed Out the Young Flock—The time is at hand to weed out all chickpeas and cockerals which may be in your flock of young stock. These birds should be sent to market or consumed at home. This will make more room for the more promising birds.

Fall Planting of Lawns—Late August or September is the best period to fall seed the lawn. The advantage of fall preparation and planting is that the grass becomes sufficiently rooted to resist summer drought the following season and is in condition to grow out weeds. If the ground is lacking in humus, it may be advisable to sow wheat or rye in the early fall, turn this under for a green manure, and sow grass in the spring.

For the Wood Lot—Spring is usually the time to plant forest trees. Fall and winter are the seasons for thinning young stands. Make your plans now for both of these pieces of work that will make the wood lot a paying proposition.

Flowers for Fall Planting—More real satisfaction and pleasure can be obtained from hardy perennials—or the "old fashioned garden flowers" as they are often called—than from any other class of plants. This is especially true of peonies, delphinium (larkspur), phlox, iris, hollyhocks, foxglove and hardy chrysanthemum. Many of these perennials can be produced from seed sown now and thus save a year. September is also a good month to move and divide iris and peony roots.

FIRE TOWER AT KECKSBURG READY DURING THE WEEK

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, Sept. 10.—The fire tower that is being built at Kecksbury will be completed within the week. A telephone line has been run to the tower. The telephone is installed but it has not been connected yet. Within the next week some person will be chosen to have charge of the tower. With a man stationed at the tower a fire should be discovered within a few minutes after it starts and the manner in which the fire warden has the district organized, within 10 minutes a group of men should be at the scene of the fire. It was exploded. A man will be stationed at the tower only during the fire season, which begins in October and closes December 1 and begins again in March. All persons who have subscribed to build the tower are invited to go to the tower and see what has been done with the money.

Road Building Far Behind the Automobile

Millions now recognize the automobile as a necessity. It is no longer a luxury for the few. Sixty per cent of its use is for business.

Because of this the modern paved highway has become an economic necessity.

Yet although the mileage of Concrete Roads and Streets has been steadily increasing, our highway system today lags far behind the automobile. The great majority of our highways are as out of date as the single-track, narrow gauge railway of fifty years ago.

Such a condition not only seriously handicaps the progress of the automobile as a comfortable, profitable means of transportation, but also holds back commercial, industrial and agricultural advancement in practically every section of the country. It is costing taxpayers millions of dollars annually.

Your highway authorities are ready to carry on their share of this great public work. But they must have your support. Tell them you are ready to invest in more and wider Concrete Highways now.

What Are They All Saying About "One-Shot"?

NOTABLE among the new features of the 1925 Cleveland Six is the "One-Shot" Lubrication System which eliminates all greasing of the chassis by hand.

No other automotive improvement of the year is the subject of so much discussion.

Owners now are often being stopped and asked, "Is it as marvelous as I have heard? Show me how it works!"

To lubricate all moving chassis parts, you merely step on a plunger. You do not leave the driver's seat. You never have to use a grease gun or an oil can.

With this exclusive, patented feature, you are saved the frequent inconvenience of leaving your car for several hours for a thorough greasing.

The danger of neglected chassis lubrication will never bother you again.

Your car is always free from squeaks and rattles. For "One-Shot" can be used whether the
